

06 – VOCABULARY: QUANTITIES AND AMOUNTS

- 1) If you count up all the passwords I have for websites, it's probably about ten in all.
- 2) I added up all the hours I had spent at the office and took away my lunch breaks: it came to an amazing 66 hours a week.
- 3) I lost count of the number of visitors we had, but it must have been as many as 50.
- 4) I would pay €20 for a haircut at the very most.
- 5) We had dozens of requests for brochures, and quite a few orders as a result.
- 6) Mila counted out €100,000 in €10 notes. Round about ten of the notes were badly torn.
- 7) He saw Carrie in a café with Andrew and put two and two together.
- 8) Ten to one they'll miss the bus again.
- 9) A: Did you think he would marry her?
B: Never in a million years!
- 10) He saw Carrie in a café with Andrew and put two and two together.
- 11) His two previous marriages failed, so he's hoping it will be third time lucky.