

05 – VOCABULARY: MOOD

I'm very annoyed with him. He hasn't returned any of my calls.

How could you say such a thing? You should be ashamed of yourself!

After he failed his English exam, he was depressed for a week.

I'm delighted that I got the job. It's just what I always wanted.

What's the matter with him? He's so down in the dumps these days.

She was disappointed by her son's poor results at school.

When he asked her to marry him she was ecstatic.

When he heard the news, he became quite emotional.

I was furious with him for breaking my favourite vase.

I'm intrigued to hear about your safari in Kenya.

I was overwhelmed by the offer of promotion at work.

She was over the moon with her new bicycle

I'm sorry you're upset – I didn't mean to be rude.

They bear a grudge against me because I didn't go with me.

She appeared calm and collected

Your constant complaints are starting to get on my nerves.

Dad will go bananas when he sees this mess.

Albert has walked for almost six hours and he is still full of beans.

I think you should pluck up the courage to invite her out.

They wanted to climb the mountain but then they chickened out